

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT

Political And Inadequate
Washington, June 25.—The successful effort of the House conferees to prevent effective draft extension by eliminating the 18-year-olds was as cheap and open a piece of politics as has been seen in a long time. It was a discredit to the House as a whole, to the House members on the Conference Committee, and particularly to Chairman May, head of the House Military Affairs Committee.

FOR it was Mr. May, who, after first casting the proxy of Representative Andrews against his known wishes, refused to use it at all when Mr. Andrews in a cable from Bikini unmistakably reiterated his advocacy of the 18-year-old draft. The whole story of this draft bill fight has humiliated this country before the world. It, in effect, proclaimed that against all reason, and at a time when it was most damaging nationally, we, the strongest nation of all, deliberately had chosen to become one of the weakest.

WITH the world not yet at peace, and talk of another war too general not to notice, we have gone from a high state of readiness to an almost complete state of unreadiness. Our armed forces have dwindled until they are inadequate to fulfill our commitments abroad—a condition in sharp contrast to that of our major war allies. As things stand now, the draft has been extended in such form as to be just short of disastrous. Its inadequacy is clear, but nothing can be done about it.

CLEARLY, the speed with which we have deteriorated militarily decreases the effectiveness of our world leadership. Inevitably, the power of the United States in the United Nations is diminished, the influence of our representatives in all international groups lessened, and our whole foreign policy enfeebled. It ought not to be this way—but that is the way it is. Moral strength and unselfish purpose ought to be sufficient equipment for world leadership but it isn't and every practical man knows it.

THE REFUSAL of the House to reverse itself was had in other ways, too. It repudiated not only the President and his chief of staff, General Eisenhower, but every detached and competent authority in the country. It played into the hands of the radical party leaders and the Communist party, whose aim is to prevent a strong foreign policy. The fact is that these elements offered the only organized

WORTH FIGHTING FOR

A full-page advertisement recently reprinted in this newspaper, entitled "Write to the President" and signed by E. F. Hutton, of Westbury, Long Island, N. Y., hit the nail squarely on the head.

It told in simple, direct language what the great political issue of the period is—the issue which dominates the coming election.

As set forth in the advertisement, the issue is this: "AMERICA IS IN DANGER OF LOSING FOREVER ITS RIGHTS TO PRIVATE ENTERPRISE AND FREE ENTERPRISE."

That's it.

All the confusing talk about Communism, State Socialism, Totalitarianism, Dictatorship, "Welfare" Stateism and "Managed" Economy boils down to the issue of private enterprise.

The question is whether the people of the United States are going to run their own affairs, free to do anything which does not interfere with each others' freedom—or whether they are to be slaves of their government.

Which side are YOU on?

Before you make up your mind, ask yourself another question: What have American citizens obtained in the past from free government, in comparison with the benefits other races have received from "planned economies?"

Well, let's see. What are the things which makes life pleasant and comfortable? Of course good food, clothing and houses are at the head of the list. Comfortable transportation possibly comes next. Labor saving devices

A SUMMARY OF THE NEWS

Senate and House conferees seemed hopelessly deadlocked over extension of the OPA when they entered a "showdown" session last night. The main issue was the Senate insistence upon removing all price controls from vital food items. Half the butcher shops in New York were closed because of the lack of meat, and poultry.

The Senate again brought up for action the bill, once vetoed by President Truman, for prompt return of Federal employment agencies to the States.

Also in Washington, Fred M. Vinson was sworn in as the 13th Chief Justice of the United States, and it was announced that the United States would meet its entire 6,000,000-ton goal of wheat for famine relief.

Poland's original proposal that members of the United Nations break diplomatic relations with Franco Spain was defeated in the Security Council, 7 to 4. The Polish delegate then proposed that the issue remain on the agenda and be taken up by September 1st. A long legal argument resulted in the appointment of a subcommittee to report tomorrow.

CONSIDER CHANGES AT LANGHORNE STATION

Plan Removal of Tower At Reading R. Crossing; Also A Fence

PROTEST IS ENTERED

LANGHORNE, June 25.—A number of changes are contemplated for the grade crossing at Langhorne station of the Reading Railroad.

One of the main changes considered is removal of the tower at the crossing.

Removal of the fence between local and express tracks on the eastbound side may also take place, with cementing over the ties being in order so inner tracks will be available to passengers.

There is also considered removal of switches now used and controlled by the tower.

The safety factors involved in this projected change have caused much concern and it is said that a protest has been entered by one of the railroad unions with S. N. Mills, director of the Bureau of Safety of the Interstate Commerce Commission in Washington.

Among the safety factors involved in this change would be the opening of the inner, high speed track to passengers when that track might be carrying a fast New York train that wouldn't be able to stop in the event passengers who had entered upon the track were not warned of the train's approach. At present the steel fence makes entry impossible except at the crossing where gatemen have considerable influence over passenger movement onto the tracks.

From observation a considerable amount of co-operation exists between tower and gateman in the lowering of gates and the control of traffic over the four main tracks of the New York branch. The removal of the tower and its personnel would throw the entire burden of traffic control on the gatemen who do not have the overall vantage point that exists under present conditions in the tower, it is pointed out.

Sharpen The Scythes

(By "The Stroller")
Bristol's annual weed plague is beginning to show itself and unless curbed will within the next few weeks prove to be a danger and a nuisance. Now is the time for lot owners to get the better of the weed situation.

Each year Borough Council is forced to send notices to property owners where weeds have grown to such an extent that they are a nuisance. Oftentimes these notices are followed by police visits to the owners so as to have the notices enforced and the weeds cut.

Owners of property where weeds have not been cut can save themselves expense and embarrassment by cutting the weeds now.

Vacant lots with high weeds are an eyesore in any community.

IDA V. CASMIRRI IS WED TO J. GALLAGHER

Ceremony at St. Ann's R. C. Church, With Reception At Local Restaurant

SHORE HONEYMOON

The Gallagher-Casimirri nuptial ceremony was solemnized in St. Ann's R. C. Church yesterday afternoon at two o'clock. The Rev. Fr. Peter Pini officiated, uniting in marriage Miss Ida V. Casimirri, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Casimirri, 725 Garden street, and Mr. John P. Gallagher, of 811 Garden street, son of Mr. and Mrs. Manus Gallagher, of Trescow.

The bride was given in marriage by her father; and serving at the organ console was Miss Rita Cloutti. The latter played the bridal marches and accompanied the vocalist, Miss Yolanda DiFelice.

Miss Rita Casimirri attended her sister as bridesmaid; with Mr. James Gallagher, of Bristol Terrace I, brother of the groom, serving as best man.

The former Miss Casimirri was attractively gowned in white marquisette, entrain. The yoke which was close-fitting at the neck, was of marquisette, and lace trimmed the V-neckline effect and also the points of the long sleeves which extended over her hands. Lace inserts enhanced the waistline. Her scalloped veil was of net, this being attached to a head-dress of small beaded hearts. White sandals completed her costume, and she carried Easter lilies.

Miss Rita Casimirri, the bridesmaid, selected for the occasion a pale orchid gown of net, it being floor-length. The illusion neckline was of net, and lace trimmed the V-effect. Long sleeves buttoned at the wrists. She wore white slippers, a headpiece of yellow tea-roses, and carried yellow tea-roses.

Prior to the ceremony dinner was served members of the bridal party and the Gallagher and Casimirri families at the home of the bride's parents. The evening reception at seven at Mari's Restaurant was attended by 150 guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Gallagher are spending four days in Atlantic City, N. J. The traveling costume of the bride consisted of a two-piece suit of white gabardine, poudre blue hat, slippers and gloves, white bag, and corsage of pink roses.

The couple will reside at Bristol Terrace II. Mrs. Gallagher, a graduate of Bristol high school, will on July 1st assume duties as bookkeeper at Waler's Paint Store. The groom, a graduate of West Hazleton high school, is employed by Manhattan Soap Co.

FALLS TOWNSHIP WOMAN IS ASKING FOR AN ANNULMENT

Catherine Guilroy Webb Claims Husband Has Another Wife

TWO DIVORCE LIBELS

Harold and Reba Stelzer Name Scranton Man Defendant

DOYLESTOWN, June 25.—Two libels in divorce, a petition to have the marriage of a Falls township girl annulled and a damage suit in which a Quakertown woman is suing for $2500, have been filed in the Court of Common Pleas, here.

Catherine Guilroy Webb, who was united in marriage to James A. Webb, September 16, 1942, in Chicago, Ill., has filed a petition for annulment of her marriage on the grounds that he has a wife living.

According to the petition, they lived together until April 25, 1944. Between the marriage date, September 16, 1942, and that time, the plaintiff alleges that she discovered that her husband was married to Anna Marie Webb, Trenton, N. J., April 14, 1944, in Trenton, N. J.

Her address is Tyburn Road, Falls Township, and that of Mr. Webb is Sherman avenue, Trenton, N. J.

Claiming damages amounting to $2886.97, Harold Stelzer and his wife, Reba K. Stelzer, have named Francis T. Samson, Scranton, the defendant in an action in trespass filed here.

The one plaintiff, Reba, was operating a car November 14, 1945, on Route 309, near Shelly's Station, where it figured in a collision with a car operated by the defendant.

Harold Stelzer, the husband, who owned the car, claims the sum of $126.97 for repairs and the sum of $250 for his wife's injuries. Mrs. Stelzer in her own right, claims the sum of $2500.

Mrs. Mildred D. Phillips, Croydon, has named her husband, Thomas Edward Phillips, also of Croydon, the respondent in a libel in divorce. They were married October 10, 1931, in West Chester.

The libellant and respondent separated June 20, 1944.

Robert B. Hamilton has been named the respondent in a libel in divorce filed by his wife, Jane B. Hamilton, Middletown Township. They were married December 5th, 1942, in Langhorne, and separated January 16, 1945. The last known address of the respondent is Indian Village, Detroit, Mich.

ONE MAN'S OPINION - -

By Walter Kiernan
(Distributed by International News Service)

The new Chief Justice finds the Supreme Court in healthy condition. . . . More muscles are in evidence than ever before.

In his first conference, is reported to have urged the Associate Justices to be guided by the Constitution and the Queensbury rules.

He is the only Chief Justice who ever had to end his instructions with "and may the better man emerge triumphant."

He has been Chief Justice since Monday and hasn't refereed a bout yet but there is a good card shaping up. . . . At least two Justices are getting in some leg work with their legal work.

We really shouldn't call the Chief Justice "Fred." . . . Nobody ever referred to Charles Evans Hughes as "Charlie." . . . But this is such a human Court the temptation is to err.

Justice Vinson takes the bench with our best wishes. There is no reason why he shouldn't be to fencing what Mike Jacobs is to boxing.

And like Michael's hundred-dollar customers . . . he asked for it.

SHADOW ECONOMY

With an enthusiasm for economy that is unfortunately rare, the House has whooped through to passage the bill which reduces the limit on the federal debt from 300 to 275 billion dollars. According to a news account, this action was taken "amid shouted demands for less federal spending" and without a dissenting voice.

It would be comforting to think that this means that the House finally and wholeheartedly has turned its back on extravagance in government and that it is determined to bring Federal expenditures down.

But it is to be feared that the spectacle of the House on an economy rampage has no more substance than a mirage. It is as easy to be against spending, in principle, as it is to be against sin. The pinch comes when a legislator is confronted with an appropriation which his constituents want rather than an abstract proposal to cut the debt limit which doesn't hit anyone directly.

The real test on economy will come later on. In view of the record of both the administration and Congress, it would be inadvisable to be optimistic about the outcome.

But the legislators would do well to keep in mind the wise advice which Chairman Doughton of the ways and means committee gave them in presenting the legislation. "If we are to retain the confidence of the people," he told them, "we must cut spending and reduce the debt."

He might have added that taxpayers will have little patience with a continuance of needless spending which bars the way to a reduction of the intolerable tax burden.

GINGER AS MEDICINE

Two physicians who have been doing research for the laboratory of a large manufacturer of medicines report that wild ginger produces bactericidal agents as active as penicillin on some organisms. One scientific writer, reporting on the experiments, says: "Only small quantities of the plant have as yet been obtained and the actual therapeutic value of the agents is yet to be determined."

But two substances have been found—classified as A and B—and the former produces a colorless compound which has proved active against numerous forms of bacteria, including streptococci and pneumococci. The "B" substance is lemon yellow and less potent.

Wild ginger grows profusely in some parts of the United States. Given a moist situation, it spreads by its underground root system. Persons who have transplanted ginger to wild flower gardens often have to dig it out, because of its tendency to crowd out other flowers. The plant has broad leaves and its blossom, a small, bell-shaped purple flower, is found near the ground and is so rarely covered that it is rarely seen.

The roots of wild ginger have a faintly aromatic odor and the taste resembles the ordinary ginger used as a condiment.

are near the top. Scientific inventions and discoveries of a great variety, from medicine to entertainment, follow. Let's call the roll of these items.

When American economy was free, any American with an average job could have, not merely some of these, but all of them.

Nowhere else in the world was good food so plentiful and so cheap. Excellent clothing was abundantly available. American homes were the envy of all other peoples.

The average family had its automobile—not infrequently, two of them. Train, plane and bus service was open for those who wanted it, and with a comfort and speed nowhere else equalled. Hardly anyone was without his radio. Any housewife had her choice of electric refrigerators, automatic stoves, washing machines, etc., etc.

The point is that these articles were so cheap and so plentiful that the average income covered all of them.

Why were they cheap? Because in a free economy, competition and mass production brought the price down. Once, for example, a fairly good automobile cost a couple of thousand dollars. But the time came when a better car sold for a third of that, and when an excellent used machine could be had for two or three hundred dollars.

Consider the electric light bulb. There was a time when these cost $1.50. Now much better ones cost only 10 or 15 cents.

All these articles were made available to the American people, under a FREE economy, at prices they could afford.

But under the managed economies of the world, whether the Communism of Russia, the Fascism of Italy, the National Socialism of Great Britain or Germany, these continued to be novelties. Only the "insiders," the specially privileged ruling classes, in these countries ever were able to have the conveniences and luxuries every American was able to buy.

The most significant point to remember is that in our own nation, where there has been a persistent effort by the National government to take over and "manage" all industries, these articles have been harder and harder to get until now many of them are completely off the market—long after the end of the war.

All sorts of excuses are being given from Washington for the scarcities; but there is only one real reason for them—the persistent interference of the government.

It's a little like grass growing in the meadow. If farmers kept trying to cultivate every single blade, they would wind up killing off the whole field. But if they let nature take its course, and allow each separate plant to attend to its own affairs, seeing only that weeds are kept down, and moisture and plant food are available, the result is a rich, sturdy and luxuriant growth.

Planned government has certain dangerous weaknesses. It costs too much for what it produces. Political favorites continue to get a free-ride at the expense of producing working people. Also, because such a government controls everything, and because the whole structure becomes progressively more disappointing, the government gets more and more strict in dealing with the individual.

Criticisms which cannot be answered with facts soon are being silenced with a club.

Freedom, free economy and free government all live together.

For the average American citizen, there is only one practical way he can help preserve them. The Democratic Party has been taken over by political groups which plan to throw this nation into planned, controlled economy. Individually, innumerable Democrats are opposed; but they are as powerless to change their party leadership as a host of working men and women are to unseat the despotic labor bosses who have seized control of certain unions.

Only by a defeat of the Democrat candidates for Congress can the American people hope to stop the drift in this nation away from a free economy.

And that means, of course, that Republican candidates must be elected.

If you want to go back to the times when every working man was able to buy the last word in luxuries and conveniences, then register Republican, work Republican, and plan to vote Republican.

opposition to adequate draft extension and expansion.

THE attitude of the House—and especially the attitude of the House conferees—can be explained solely on the ground of politics. This is an election year, and every member first has to be re-nominated and then re-elected. In every district there are a certain number of parents naturally reluctant to the drafting of their sons. Pressure came from these—particularly from the mothers. Added to this the organized labor groups, the leaders of which behaved about the draft as though it were a rattlesnake, and this was enough to alarm a lot of bunny-blooded representatives to the point where they were willing to push aside all the great national questions involved and (the Democrats) array themselves against their own President and party Administration.

IT was an exceedingly unedifying exhibition. Members of Congress knew that a majority of the people favored the stand of Mr. Truman and General Eisenhower. They knew the people believed them when they said it was important to pass an adequate bill. But they knew also that the majority is forgetful, unorganized and unresentful; while those who oppose are organized, remembering and punitive disposed. In brief, the emasculation of the measure was political and ignoble. That the opposition was able to nullify the weight of the President and his military advisers when they were so clearly right does not speak well for our system. The best that can be said of favored the stand of Mr. Truman nothing.

A strong attack against the United States was delivered by Mao Tse-tung, China's Communist leader, who demanded the immediate evacuation of American troops. Lend-lease and other aid to the Kuomintang regime, he said, has prolonged the civil war.

Hillside HOME

By MARION CLYDE McCARROLL

Does the property on which you plan to build involve a slope?

If so, there are special things to consider in order to make your hillside home most charming and effective.

For instance, what sort of approach will you have—a winding pathway, or steps? And what type of house will look best on such a site?

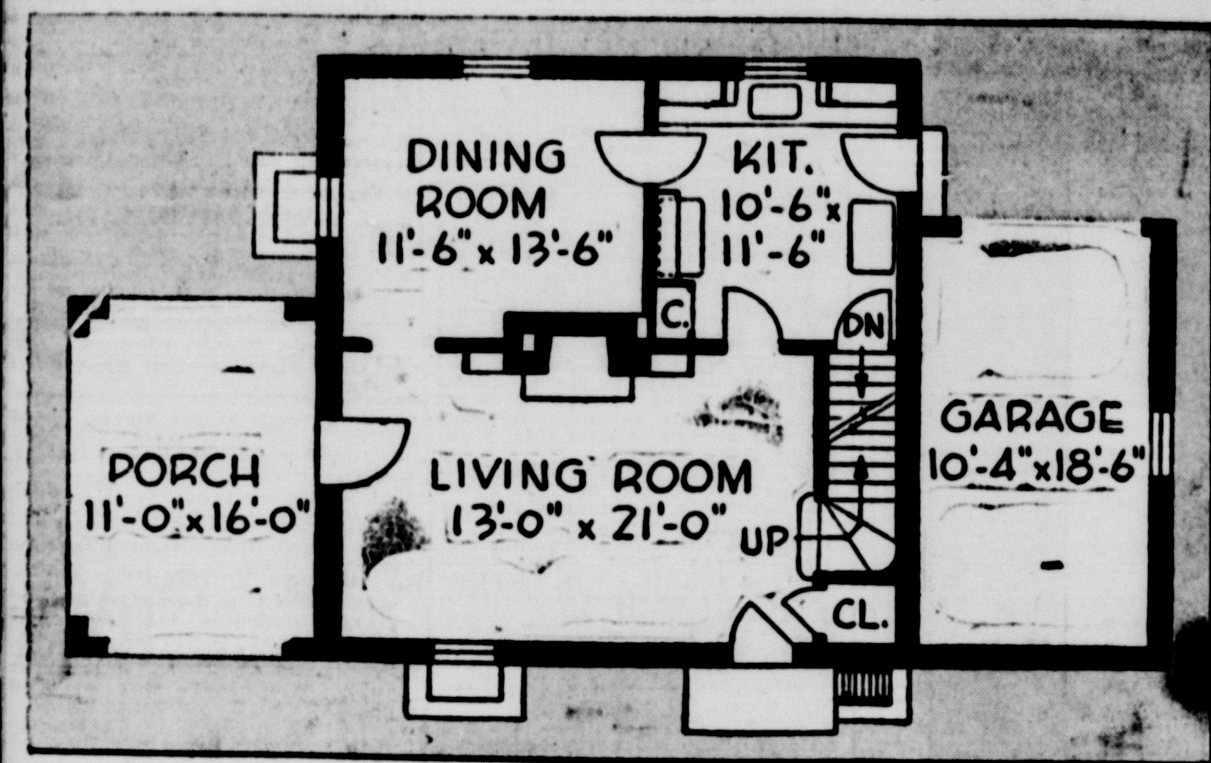

The house shown here is an example of the kind of building that takes full advantage of the possibilities of its sloping lot, which in this case rises about 15 feet above street level.

The ascent has been made easy by terracing the land and then building a flight of shallow steps that will be considerate of leg muscles and breath. An iron railing on the right side offers aid and comfort to those not so fleet of foot and strong of wind as they once were, besides being a decorative addition to the outdoor stairway.

As for the house itself, the identical wings were

One of the Most Difficult Sites on which to plan a home effectively is the building lot that slopes. The house placed on such a site shouldn't look too high, so the architect here added two identical wings to give width and fool the eye on height.

In the First Floor Plan of this hillside home, the wing on the right side was originally intended to be a one-car garage. Instead, however, the owner decided to turn this space into an extra room with a bath.

ss Doris Scank And William Morris, Jr., Wed

On Saturday afternoon at four o'clock, a wedding took place in St. John's R. C. rectory, when Miss Doris Scank, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Scank, Croydon, became the bride of Mr. William Morris, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. William Morris. The Rev. Father Paul Baird officiated, and Miss Katherine Keat accompanied Mrs. Howard Engle, who sang "I Love You Truly." Because the bride was given in marriage by her father, her attendants were Gloria Greco, maid of honor; Dorothy Strickler, cousin of the bride; and Miss Margaret Barth, bridesmaid. The groom was attended by Francis Fallon, best man; and the ushers were Mr. John Ferry and John Ritter. The bride gave her attendants compact, and the groom's gifts to his attendants were gold cigarette lighters. A reception was held in Schenck Post Home, V. F. W., Croydon, with 125 guests attending. After a honeymoon in Atlantic City, N. J., the couple will make their home with the bride's parents, Christie Avenue, Croydon.

Destroyer-Escort Is To Be Scrapped

BORDENTOWN, N. J., June 25—The destroyer-escort "Donnell" has found its last berth. Steel for foundry scrap will be obtained from bulk of the 1,300-ton war weary veteran of the Atlantic U-boat campaign. The North American Smelting Company of Philadelphia has contracted with Harry Boone, of Doylestown, to cut up the "Donnell" and it is to be taken to the Delaware River near here where it will be scrapped. The batteries of Oerlikon and Bofors guns have been removed from the vessel but its super structure remains. The interior fittings were stripped at the Philadelphia Navy Yard. The "Donnell" had its stern shot away during operations off the Normandy coast. It was tied up at Le Havre to supply electricity to the stricken French port from its boilers and generators. The Navy had it moved back across the Atlantic to Philadelphia and then brought here.

HONOR THE GREAT SEAL

The hopes of Americans for permanent peace are reflected in the Great Seal, with the eagle as the outstanding character, members of the Bristol-Penn. Aerie, Fraternal Order of Eagles, were told last night at a program commemorating Emblem Day, which marks the 164th anniversary of the adoption of the Great Seal as the emblem of the nation. Five were initiated.

REUNION AFTER 40 YEARS

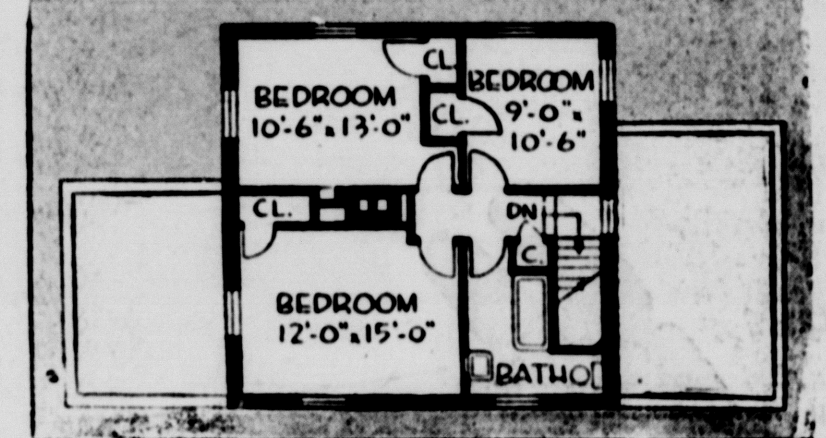

Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Tracey, of Little, Wis., will arrive in Philadelphia tomorrow to visit Mrs. Tracey's sister, Mrs. Martha Marsden. Mrs. Tracey and Mrs. Marsden formerly resided in Bristol, and this is the first time they have seen each other since 1906.

An interesting idea having to do with the two wings is that while the one on the left houses an enclosed porch, painted black with white lattice on the street side, the wing on the right actually has a blank wall facing the street, made to match its twin by painting the wall itself black and covering it with a lattice.

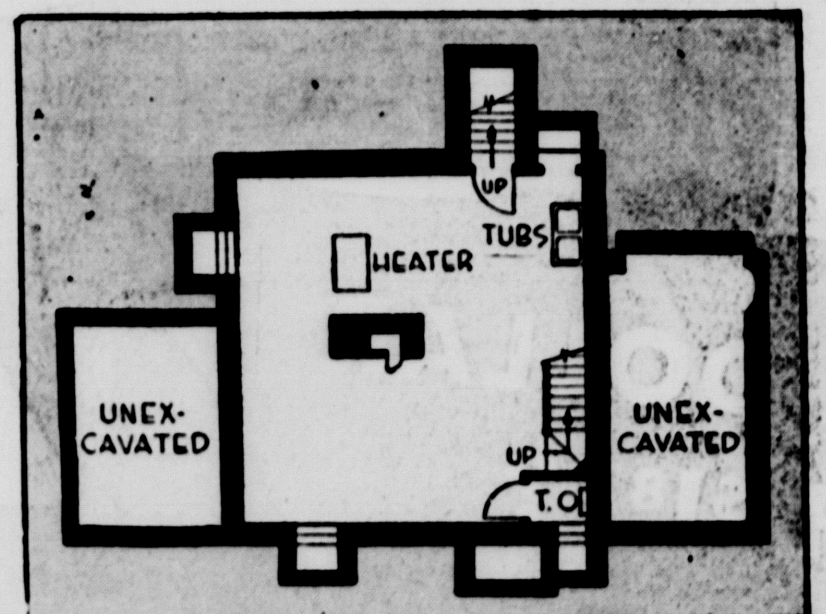

This right-hand wing, as can be seen in the original floor plans shown here, was intended, when the plans were drawn, to be a one-car garage. This was changed, however, when the house was built, to provide an extra room and bath instead of garage space.

An interesting feature of this piece of building construction is the fact of its economical excavation, as illustrated in one of the diagrams below, which shows the spacious basement under the main part of house and the unexcavated ground under right and left wings.

Heater and tubs are located in such a manner that plenty of unobstructed space remains which could be turned into a good-sized recreation room for the family.

Three Bedrooms Occupy as many corners of the second floor, with the fourth corner given up to a large bathroom and the stairs from below.

"FLAVOR-AGED" and FLAVOR-PERFECT

Fruit needs time to ripen fully. And Cliequot Club Ginger Ale also uses "time" to win its matchless flavor. Fine Jamaica ginger is faultlessly blended with other choice ingredients, then aged for months. Flavor-aged. Its goodness comes in full-quart bottles.

WHO SAID A DOLLAR IS WORTH $1.87?

SOUNDS STRANGE, WE AGREE. Especially nowadays when on all sides you hear talk of soaring prices. Food, clothing, most everything is higher...and threatens to go still higher.

Most everything that is—excepting electricity.

From 1930 to the end of 1945, the price of electricity for the average Philadelphia home was reduced by nearly half. During the same period, the use of electricity in the average home more than doubled. That means householders in this area got a lot more for their money...a full $1.87 worth, measured by 1930 rates, for every dollar they paid on their electric bill.

Now...electricity costs less than ever before in history of this company

FLEETWINGS MOVES CLOSER TO THE TOP; PROCESSING LOSERS

'Plane Builders Take Game by The Score of 4 to 2

SAMSEL ON MOUND

Fleetwingers Now Securely Entrenched in Fifth Place

The Fleetwings team moved closer to a playoff position in the Bristol Suburban League by beating the Bristol Processing nine, 4-2, last evening on Leedom's field. The airplane workers are now entrenched in fifth place, one full game away from fourth position.

In beating the fur-workers, the "Wingers" also handed "Benny" Samsel his first mound loss of the season although it must be stated that Samsel was not accorded first-class support.

WAGNER STRIKES OUT NINE RIVAL BATSMEN

MORRISVILLE, June 25—With nine strikeouts to his credit, Earl Wagner held the Morrisville Legion to four hits last evening on the Robert Morris field as the Bristol Legion won its second game of the Bucks County Legion Junior League. Final score was Bristol, 6; Morrisville, 2.

Wagner was complete master of the situation as he pulled through a shaky first inning and then only had 19 batters face him the remainder of the game. The Bristol hurler did not walk a man although he did hit Wallace with a pitched ball only to wipe him off with a double-play.

FINAL SCORE IS 4 TO 3

Winning Run Was Scored In The Ninth Lining

The Harriman A. C. chances of finishing in the playoffs took a dim last evening on the high school diamond as the Bristol Legion upset the sixth ward boys, 4-3, in a hard-fought game.

Hitting in the pinches gave the Legionnaires the tilt as practically every runner they put on base eventually scored. The winning run was scored in the ninth with two out. Mangiaracina was hit with a pitched ball and stole second. He advanced on a passed ball and scored on Ashton's hit to left.

Cornwells Rallies To Defeat Calvary

Cornwells rallied in the late innings to nose out Calvary, 7-6, to retain their leadership in the race for the first half title of the Lower Bucks Church softball league. In other games played last night Eddington-Newportville easily defeated St. James, 10-1; while Bristol Presbyterian walloped Hulmeville Methodist, 16-3.

The Calvary-Cornwells scrap played at the Columbus Country Club on State Road was definitely the most exciting tilt of the season, as well as the most important playeddington-Newport Presbyterian retained their hold on third place by upsetting St. James by a 10-1 score. A double by Ray Dewees which accounted for two runs featured Eddington's big 5-run third inning.

Dick Little pitched Presbyterian to an easy 16-3 win over Hulmeville in the other game played last night.

With the score, 7-1, Presbyterian added a sextet of runs in the 5th to make it a rout.
